Chicago Officials Take Sharp Blow At Gang Terrorism

Eight Labor Leaders Indicted on Charge of Murdering Policemen
HUNDREDS ARE ARRESTED
State's Attorney Seeks Execution of Building Trades Bosses

Chicago — Police and civic organizations Friday saw in the indictment of eight Chicago labor leaders and the state's attorney's threat to use against them the law invoked 36 years ago to obtain executions of the Haymarket rioters, a smashing blow at what they termed gang terrorism. In the first night session on record, a Cook county special grand jury returned true bills charging murder against "Big Tim" Murphy, head of the Gas Workers union, Fred Mader, president of the Chicago Building Trades Council, Cornelius P. (Con) Shea, secretary-treasurer of the Theatre Janitors Union, referred to as the "big three" of the vicious labor circle, and five others.

SCORES TO FOLLOW
The indictments are forerunners of scores of others, officials said. More than 400 persons were arrested and but few have been released, with the greater number denied freedom on writs of habeas corpus.

Others named in the indictments are: Isadore Braverman, head of the Fixture Hangers union; Daniel McCarty, business agent of the Plumbers union; Jerry Hogan, saloonkeeper; Thomas Hogan, former police officer; and Robert McCleod, clerk in the building trade council.

The eight are charged specifically with the killing of Terrence Lyons, acting police lieutenant. The slaying of Lyons followed the murder of Thomas Clark, patrolman on guard at a building which previously had been bombed, police say, by labor men because it was being erected under the Landis award.

MEN ARE HELD
Efforts of attorneys for the labor leaders to obtain the release of Murphy, Shea, Mader and the others failed when Judge Scanlon declared a state of war existed between labor and the police.

Witnesses before the grand jury Friday night included 20 policemen in addition to civilians, all guarded carefully because police feared they might come to harm if labor organizations learned who had testified. Documents seized at labor headquarters during raids made following the murders also were introduced.

DENIES CHARGES OF "HAP" FELSCH

Chicago — "Every charge made by Happy Felsch against Charles A. Comiskey, Louis Comiskey or the White Sox club is an absolute falsehood," Harry Grabner, secretary of the Chicago white Sox said Friday after reading statements made in an affidavit in Milwaukee Thursday by Felsch which charged that the two Comiskies knew of "fixed" ball games in which the Sox took part in 1917. Both Comiskies are out of town.

"Happy Felsch is a discredited man who accepted money to betray his employer and his team mates by throwing games in the 1919 series," continued Mr. Grabner. "What he says is not really worth commenting on, but since so much has been said about it, I will say that every word is a falsehood. Felsch really has not charged anything. He simply asks a lot of silly questions with a lot of implications in them. It does not take a smart man nor even a smart lawyer to do that."

FARM BLOC IN SENATE COMES BACK TO LIFE

Group Confers on Bill to Reorganize Farm Credit Machinery of Nation

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—The farm bloc in the United States senate, after a period of comparative quiet has come back to life. The first meeting of the group since the resignation of Senator Kenyon has just been held under the chairmanship of Senator Capper of Kansas. Insisting that their purposes were nonpartisan and solely to benefit the agricultural interests of the country, twelve Republicans and eleven Democrats attended the meeting and endeavored to reach an agreement on a bill which would reorganize the farm credit machinery of the nation.

The group decided upon the appointment of a committee of seven to examine a half dozen bills now pending in congress with a view to working out a satisfactory compromise. Practically every farm interest was represented at the meeting. There were representatives of the National Grange, the Farmers' bureau, the Farmers' National council, conservatives and radicals alike. Eugene Meyer, Jr., man-aging director of the war finance corporation, took part in the discussion.

MOVE IS SIGNIFICANT
The move is fraught with great significance, Senator Capper told this correspondent Friday, that a committee of the American Bankers' association favored the plan of a new credit system for the farmer and stock man and that President Harding was favorably disposed to the idea.

Briefly the aim of all the bills is to enable the farmer to market his crops without depending upon the middleman and without permitting the speculators and other intervening interests to take advantage of the farmers immediate need for credit to pay his ninety day obligations. The desire of the farm bloc is to establish in America a credit system with six months or more as the length of their credit obligations.

The tendency is to use the existing farm land bank system and extend its powers. At present these twelve regional banks make loans on land only but the proposed legislation would enable them to issue loans on the basis of commodities such as grain, cotton, and live stock and other products of the ranch and farm. The government would start the ball rolling with an advance of a hundred million dollars, though some estimates run as high as five hundred millions and then the government would float farm bonds as a basis of credit and thus obtain from small investors throughout the country the money wherewith to finance the crops of the nation. The farm loan bonds now on sale are returning a good rate of interest and are selling remarkably well so the agriculturalists believe the bonds to be floated later would be gobbled up as a splendid investment.

MUST SELL QUICKLY.
Under the present system the farmer borrows on a ninety day basis from the banks and must dispose of his crops quickly to get money to pay his notes. He dumps his wares on the market and thus depresses the price. Meanwhile the speculators and elevator owners who take the farmers products hold the same for higher prices and this speculation makes the price to the consumer higher. The farmer wants that margin for himself and believes he should be given credit on a parity with the speculator or elevator owner who gets it from the city banks.

As Senator Capper expressed it Friday, the present banking system was devised to furnish credit for the manufacturer and merchant who has a quick turnover. For that purpose ninety days' credits are sufficient, but for the farmer and cattle raiser a longer period is necessary for he does not turn over his crops so quickly or at least would prefer to move his products more in harmony with the supply of credit.

Deadwood, S. D. — The sleet and snow storm that held sway in the northern Black Hills for the last two days abated Thursday night after heavy precipitation caused several rivers to reach flood stages and inundated the towns of Spearfish and Bellefourche. Bellefourche was partly under water Friday. Many bridges were washed out and a number of buildings carried away.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR AIR FLEET

United States to Have Adequate Fighting Force of Aircraft

By Associated Press.
Washington.—Plans for complete equipment of the fighting fleet with aircraft during the coming fiscal year it was learned Friday, have been laid before the senate naval committee by Rear Admiral Moffatt, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics.

The project contemplates placing 213 airplanes of various essential types on battleships, cruisers, scouts and other vessels and is designed to furnish the fleet with its own aerial defense against enemy aircraft attack. Under the plan 88 small swift fighters will be included in the fleet aircraft to become a permanent part of the fleet aircraft defense. They are designed to meet in air and repel raids against the ships of the fleet by enemy bombers.

In addition the active ships will carry 46 observation and spotting planes, 27 small spotters, 28 torpedo or bombing planes, 18 scouts and 4 kite balloons for observation purposes. Each battleship of the 18 comprising the fleet under the naval limitation treaty will carry four planes.

MINE CLOSED BY STRIKE BLOWN UP

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Peterman mine in Penn township, near here, was blown up early Friday by a heavy charge of dynamite which threw stones so far that the farm house of George Vessel, almost a quarter of a mile away was damaged. Sheriff Woodside, with a big force of deputies, left Pittsburgh shortly after 9 a. m. for the mine, where, it was reported, a body of coal strike sympathizers had collected.

Twelve men were brought to the county jail at noon, having been arrested by Deputy Sheriffs. The Peterman mine had not been operating since the strike was called, but the Schenck pit has continued to work. The trouble began before day break when the entrance to the Peterman mine was destroyed by a charge of dynamite.

Santa Rosa, Cal. — A controversy over the question of whether Mrs. E. Thornberry Close, principal of the Rincon Valley school here, should be compelled to resign because she wears her hair and wears her skirts eight inches from the floor has resulted in the resignation of two of the three members of the school board of trustees.

Mrs. Thornberry Close was asked to resign, but refused to do so until a poll of the school parents was taken on the matter. The poll sustained her by 27 to 3 and the resignations followed.

Teacher Asked To Quit Because She Uses Powder

By Associated Press.
Genoa.—The fate of the Genoa conference may be settled today in Paris, in the opinion of many of the delegates and the decision of Premier Poincare on the Russian reply to the allied memorandum was awaited here with anxiety.

Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and Signor Schanzer, Italian foreign minister, have used all their influence with the chief of the French delegation M. Barthou, to impress upon him that the Russian note although not as favorable as was hoped, still leaves the door open for discussion and perhaps for general agreement. They urged him to reflect this opinion in his dispatches to his premier.

NATIONS HONOR MEMORY OF RED CROSS FOUNDER

Florence Nightingale School for Nurses Dedicated at Bordeaux, France

By Associated Press.
Bordeaux.—Six nations Friday honored the memory of Florence Nightingale, founder of the modern Red Cross nursing and the 278 American nurses who died in France during the world war. The principal event of the day was the dedication of the Florence Nightingale school for nurses, as a "memorial to the higher education of nurses for humanity and for France."

Miss Mary Bead of Boston speaking on behalf of the nurses of the United States recounted the services of Miss Nightingale in succoring the wounded at Balaklava, the scene of the famous charge of the lights brigade and later in the hospital at Constantinople.

"Two thousand years ago," she said, "a man gave the world a message of mercy, indulgence and love but it remained for a woman born 102 years ago today to give practical application of those principles to suffering humanity."

"The example of Miss Nightingale 'the lady with the lamp' has been followed by thousands of other nurses throughout the world. Nearly 300 of our sisters from America gave their lives for France and humanity, one hundred of whom rest in French soil."

The new school will provide every facility for training nurses according to American standards.

PROBE OF STEEL MERGER ORDERED

Senate Adopts LaFollette Resolution Calling for Investigation

By Associated Press.
Washington.—Federal inquiry into reported plans for a merger of a number of the largest independent steel concerns including the Bethlehem and Lackawanna companies, was ordered Friday by the senate in adopting a resolution of Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, calling on the department of justice and federal trade commission to take steps designed to prevent the combination.

Adoption of the resolution followed an extended address by Senator LaFollette attacking the proposed combination which he said would give it and the U. S. Steel corporation virtually complete domination over the steel industry. Unanimous consent was given for immediate consideration of the resolution and there was little other discussion. The resolution directs: That the attorney general of the United States and the federal trade commission be requested to inform the senate as soon as possible what steps they have taken or propose to take to ascertain the purposes and probable effects of the proposed merger, what have been the results of an investigation which they may have conducted and what actions they have instituted to protect the public interest.

"That the attorney general be further requested to inform the senate whether it is advisable, in his opinion, to proceed under the appropriate provision of the Sherman law and the Clayton Law to prevent and restrain this impending combination."

QUESTIONS ARE EVADED

Lloyd George Makes Frantio
Efforts to Hold Nations Together

By Associated Press.
Genoa.—The fate of the Genoa conference may be settled today in Paris, in the opinion of many of the delegates and the decision of Premier Poincare on the Russian reply to the allied memorandum was awaited here with anxiety.

Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and Signor Schanzer, Italian foreign minister, have used all their influence with the chief of the French delegation M. Barthou, to impress upon him that the Russian note although not as favorable as was hoped, still leaves the door open for discussion and perhaps for general agreement. They urged him to reflect this opinion in his dispatches to his premier.

WILL FOLLOW FRANCE

It is believed if left to themselves, the majority of the powers will favor continuance of the discussion but if France withdraws from the conference certain of the other powers will follow her.

The number of such nations might be enough to make impossible hope of agreement with the soviet, even if Lloyd George is willing to continue the conference without France.

The latter contingency is improbable, however, considering the storm of protest such an indication of the collapse of the entente might raise in England.

M. Barthou telegraphed the text of the Russian communication to Paris and expected to receive his instructions Friday after reading the document his own comment was:

"It is less an answer than an indictment of the powers, coupled with a flat refusal to reply to the questions put to them (the Russian)."

The British view as given by Sir Edward Grigg, was that the note "certainly calls for a rejoinder."

SUPPORT POPE'S CLAIMS

The Genoa conference will support the Pope's claims regarding freedom of ownership and religious education in Russia. Mgr. Pizzardo, deputy secretary of state for the Vatican, was expected before departing for Rome Thursday.

This leaves aside the question of restitution of church property as any action on this subject by the conference, it is said might be interpreted as foreign interference in Russia's internal affairs.

The economic conference sub commission on Russian affairs Friday afternoon postponed consideration of the Russian reply to the allied memorandum until 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

DOCTORS TO MEET TO CONSIDER NEED OF NURSES HERE

Welfare Council Outlines Its Work and Hears Committee Reports

Local doctors will be asked to discuss the city health nursing situation at a meeting called for 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, May 24, by the Appleton Welfare Council. This was decided at a meeting of the Welfare Council in the vocational school Thursday afternoon. The council committee of the city nurse problem met at 1:30 to prepare its report for the council. The doctors will be asked to meet with this committee.

After interviewing principals of schools, the city attorney, Miss Jane Barclay, the first and second district nurse, and others, the committee found that it is impractical to suggest any definite plan at this time because the school system in Appleton probably will be changed within a short time from district to union system. The fact that the difficulty over the appointment of the city physician has not yet been settled also made the committee feel that no definite plan could be suggested. It was the suggestion of the committee, however, that the doctors who are more closely in touch with the nurse problem than any others be called together to give their views on the need for visiting nurse or school nurses or both.

The problem of the dental clinic also was discussed and it was recommended that a meeting of the dentists be called to discuss the possibility of a dental clinic in Appleton for the next year. Other problems which will be taken up by the council next week were discussed. Mrs. L. J. Marshall was appointed as a member of the industrial rehabilitation committee after the work of this committee had been explained by W. S. Ford, local chairman of the committee.

A motion picture on swimming education and life saving was shown to the council by Chauncey A. Hyatt, director of Life Saving for the Red Cross. He asked the council to encourage life saving corps here.

MANY PRISONERS STAY IN RUSSIA

Former German, Austrian and Hungarian Soldiers Like Soviet Country

By Associated Press
Riga, Latvia—Repatriation of the hundreds of thousands of officers and soldiers captured by the Russians during the world war has nearly been completed. Thousands of Germans, Austrians, Hungarians and soldiers of various other nationalities, whom the Russians took prisoner, have married and decided to remain indefinitely in the Soviet country.

Among a detachment of former Hungarian officers passing through Riga recently enroute home was Count Valentine Szechenyi, whose cousin married Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, of New York, the Count being accompanied by his wife, a young Russian woman, Princess Mary Galtzain.

The story of the marriage of the count and the Princess, which took place a year ago, was published in America at that time. The Count was permitted to leave a Soviet prison under guard, long enough for the wedding ceremony. Immediately afterward he was returned to Andrej Zevsky prison, near Moscow, where there was a wedding breakfast of black bread, tea and coffee made of toasted grain, a substitute used extensively in Germany and other countries cut off from the outside world during the war.

The Count and Countess, traveling under auspices of the International Red Cross with 300 other prisoners of war, were taken from Riga to Budapest. Later they planned to go to Constantinople possibly to make their home.

Count Szechenyi and other Hungarians, many of whom were American taken prisoners in 1915 were exchanged by the Soviets for an equal number of Communists who had been in jail in Hungary.

The Count learned to speak perfect Russian during his seven years' imprisonment, and before his discharge had become a first-class electrician, having charge of the prison lighting system. Countess Szechenyi speaks splendid English, learned as a child, and plans soon to visit America.

NEED MORE MONEY IN NEAR EAST WORK

Arthur C. Ryan Tells Mission School How Near East is Exploited

Arthur C. Ryan, general secretary of the American Bible society of Constantinople, spoke to the school of missions of the Congregational church on Thursday evening, choosing as his subject, "Diplomacy, War and Religion in the Near East." He told of the selfish diplomacy of the various nations which are exploiting the nations of the near east and handicapping the work of the missionaries. Conditions are such in Asia Minor at the present time that a large number of missionaries have had to be recalled from the interior and can only do their work in Constantinople.

The speaker urged that more attention be made to furnishing bibles and religion to these people in the near east. He urged that no less be given to the near east relief to help the orphans who are starving there, but that additional money be given for their religious welfare. Mr. Ryan was the fourth speaker for the school of missions. The next meeting of the classes be the last of the season.

HAS NO FUNDS TO LOAN FOR HOUSES

Loan Associated Defers Six Prospective Builders — Hope to Obtain Sum

Six applications requesting loans totaling $20,000 with which to build new homes were submitted to the directors of Appleton Building and Loan association by George H. Beckley, secretary, at the monthly meeting Thursday evening but no funds were available.

The association has loaned its money as fast as it could be accumulated because of the heavy demand for home building and deferred the applications until next meeting in the hope that enough deposits will have been made to take care of them.

Publicity efforts begun several weeks ago will be kept up and a campaign conducted to obtain a large fund to take care of the heavy summer demand for loans. The directors intend to accommodate all possible applicants so those who plan to build will not become discouraged and wait until next year.

C. A. Hyatt, Swimming Director of Red Cross, Holds Conference Here

Telling the history of swimming and demonstrating principles of life saving as he talked, Chauncey A. Hyatt, director of life saving of the American Red Cross, entertained a small audience at the Y. M. C. A. pool in his work Thursday. Mr. Hyatt stopped in Appleton for only a few hours on his way to Oshkosh where he will establish a life saving corps, probably will return later to make arrangements for a woman's life saving corps in Appleton and to give a demonstration for Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and others.

Mr. Hyatt, who has been swimming director for several universities and big athletic clubs, is to conduct a school for life savers at Appleton soon. He is to return there to speak to several organizations on a program of swimming education as well as actual life saving. His work is directed by the Red Cross and he is at the service of any community which may wish to put on a water pageant, establish a life corps or conduct a campaign for more swimming education.

"The lung motor has killed more people than it has saved," said the swimmer as he showed an approved respiration method. "Many good barrels have been spoiled by rolling people on them. That method is not being used any more."

Mr. Hyatt started his demonstration of swimming with Mr. and Mrs. Stone of Stone Age who fell into a lake one day and had such a good time that swimming began to be developed. He continued with the story of each stroke as it developed.

Miss Emily Adams of the recreation department of Appleton (womans club who is to have charge of the swimming for the club girls during the summer) had a conference with Mr. Hyatt before his demonstration. He explained that the womans life saving corp would be of great value as a part of the camping activities of the girls, giving them something definite to work toward. He offered every assistance in making the womans corps here a possibility before the end of the summer.

CITY DRIVERS ARE WORST OFFENDERS

Arresting country boys for speeding is all right, but Judge A. M. Spencer of municipal court would be better satisfied if Wilbur Bogan, new motor cop, would nab some of those "city fellows" who use the rural highways for race courses. He intimated that in municipal court Thursday when he said:

"If the motor cop would devote more of his time during the picking up of the cities who are breaking the speed laws instead of chasing after boys who are going home from dances late at night, it will be satisfactory to the court."

When a young man goes home after midnight from a dance who can blame him much if he is in a hurry to get home, especially when the roads are open?"

S. A. Konz has gone to Iowa and Minnesota on a business trip and will be absent until the end of the week. Miss Katherine Luebben of Milwaukee, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Luebben, 910 Drow-st.

THE COUNTY CONVENTIONS

We have no doubt the originators of the Committee of Forty-four are well satisfied with the county conventions which selected delegates to the state conference to be held in Milwaukee June 1st. They were as much as the committee could expect in the way of attendance, while the average intelligence of the delegates selected is considerably higher than that of the delegates who used to attend the old time conventions. Numerically, the county conventions were small. To what extent they represent independent opinion and not partisanship and factionalism no one can of course say. This we can only tell when they go to Milwaukee and engage in the undertaking for which they have been selected.

If these delegates expect to enlist public confidence and to choose a state ticket which will have the indorsement of a plurality of the voters next September and November, they will have to bear in mind the fact that they are meeting for something more than a purpose to merely defeat Governor Blaine for reelection. A negative program will not do. They must offer to the state not only a constructive policy, but a candidate for governor whose ability, fitness and strength of character appeal to the support of citizens.

Should the convention degenerate into a contest between factions it would be fatal to its purposes. There ought to be a spontaneous and decisive call to some outstanding leader to take the nomination for governor and conduct a sensible, dignified, aggressive campaign against radicalism and for sane state government. If the convention can function after this fashion it will have the people with it and its indorsement of a candidate will amount to something. Anything less than this must be regarded as a failure to measure up to public expectations as well as a handicap to the candidate indorsed.

THE LESSON OF PREVENTION

A news item from a Washington paper, expressing the fear that congress has already forgotten the lesson of the Knickerbocker theater disaster, serves to remind the general public of that tragedy. There are not yet enough building inspectors to prevent a recurrence of such an accident. And an appropriation bill not in conference would greatly reduce the number of inspectors.

The district commissioners are urging congress either to give them enough inspectors to insure permanent and adequate inspection or to provide a fund with which to supply temporary inspectors when needed. Any citizen can wag his head over the matter and say, "That's just like congress!" It would be more to the point if every citizen would turn his attention to local affairs to see whether the lesson has been learned in his own community. Are school-houses sufficiently protected against fire? Are local regulation and inspection adequate to insure the safety of theatre patrons?

"IDEAL" MONEY IN RUSSIA

The Russian government, having dumped more than 70 trillions of rubles—normally 35 trillion dollars—into circulation, is finding the stuff so useless for business and taxation that it is said to be planning the abandonment of both gold and paper and adopting a new money standard. It has actually stopped issuing paper banknotes. Paper is still being printed, but in the form of treasury notes of high face value. Moreover, their value is computed, in practice, in actual money power—that is, in so-called "gold rubles," representing the purchasing power of the ruble in the sound-money days before the war. Such a ruble is at present equivalent to more than 2,000,000 paper rubles.

Now, this "gold ruble" is a purely theoretical unit of exchange. It is an abstraction, representing the equivalent of a pre-war ruble in commodities, and the soviet government is trying to work out a system whereby this abstraction will be adopted as the new, working unit of Russian currency. This is nothing less than such an "absolute standard of value" as many American economists have urged, a sort of "goods index" to replace the gold standard. There has been much talk of such an innovation, during and since the war, because of the fluctuation of gold and the unsettlement thereby caused in all the commercial values for which gold is used as a measuring-stick.

It will be interesting indeed if, out of the Russian financial chaos, comes a money system which some of our college professors have been suggesting as ideal. Ideal or not, however, it is hardly conceivable that such an "absolute standard" could work in one nation alone. To make it practical, it would have to be adopted by all nations.

SLANDERING AN EX-PRESIDENT

Congressman Joseph Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, is a politician whose partisanship has no sense of shame. Just as Mr. Fordney would tax almost without limit every consumer for the enrichment of industry and vested interests, so would he prostitute citizenship to the level of the gutter to gain a partisan advantage. Mr. Fordney knows but one duty, which is to preserve his party, and to assail anything and everybody which does not conform to his conception of party standards.

Although Mr. Wilson has been out of the White house for more than a year and has taken no part in public affairs, Mr. Fordney is one of those in congress who continues to traduce the former president. In one of his characteristic speeches the Michigan representative, after maligning Mr. Wilson with about the same language he would apply to a common cur, concluded with this statement:

Let me say that in 1920 I made the statement that the then president was going to change his heading house on March 4, and he did. I said we would say to him what I have heard since at the close of a school I attended down in the backwoods.

"Good by scholars, good by school; Goodbye, teacher, you damned old fool!" A man who will refer to a president of the United States in this coarse, livid, stable language has carried his partisanship to a point that is beyond even contempt. Such utterances are on a par with the calumniation of Abraham Lincoln which we now read with shame and humiliation. Mr. Wilson is a victim, a sacrifice, of the World War quite as much as anyone of the thousands of American boys who lie buried in France or at Arlington, as any one of the thousands of maimed, sightless survivors that claim our gratitude and pity. He fell in the midst of service after piloting the nation successfully through one of the most trying periods of our national existence.

To slander a man still prostrate from that sacrifice, to say nothing of the fact that he was president of the American people, is beyond all possible excuse. These exhibitions of partisanship are of the kind which demoralize government, debase public office and shelter betrayal of the people. It places the author of this post-war vituperation in a class coming very close to that of which Senator LaFollette was a spokesman in its criticisms during the war.

A Nation of Candy Eaters

One of the remarkable results of prohibition is the growth of the candy business since the enactment of the 18th amendment. There was invested in this business in 1914 the sum of $170,845,000. There is now invested $300,000,000, a tremendous jump in value. Perhaps it is this demand that keeps candy prices so high, in the face of the great drop in sugar.

There is no nation in the world that consumes so great a quantity of these sweets as do the people of the United States. With a population now estimated at 115,000,000, it means that over four dollars' worth of candy is made annually for every man, woman and child in the country. The theorist holds that this growing consumption is owing to a craving for some sort of a substitute for alcoholic beverages. This presents a problem for the physiologist and psychologist to work out. The fact is, seemingly, that the water wagon has become a confectionery wagon, and that hundreds of thousands of unwinding riders find some solace in bonbons and chocolate creams, who, in the pre-prohibition days, may not even have known the taste of these delectables.—BOSTON POST, (Ind. Dem.)

Samson Couldn't Get By With It

Peggy Joyce first thought in her present unhappiness was of Jack Dempsey. He responded instantly to the appeal of beauty in distress. We advised him to take the next boat home. It was already too late. He was speeding to the distracted beauty who lunches on pearls and dines on diamonds. The forlorn Peggy says that life is a dead thing in her hands, but that possibly if she can make a film with Mr. Dempsey she may recover some of her girlish cheerfulness and also pick up a little change.

Samson is hurrying to the arms of Delilah, and this, we fear, is good-night to a champion and a championship. He was a good man once, but he, who could scare a ring opponent by growling a three day beard, will be sent under the clippers and come out as a billiard ball.

THE DEMON BATHER

Sanitary engineers, as they are wont to call themselves, and just plain black mustached plumbers are frankly warned that they will gain nothing by reading this article.

As one smarting victim writes:
"One would not care so much about how many baths these bathing fiends took each day if they would only brag less about such feats. But they want to apprise the whole world of the accomplishments, and incidentally to try to make the other fellow feel like a pig because he doesn't devote most of his leisure to wallowing in the bath tub. One of my associates takes three baths a day—at least that is his frequent boast—and another disgraces the community and impairs his own hygienic existence by indulging in but two a day. I may remark en route that both of these fairly daff bathers were brought up, and brought up well, in a village where no bath tubs were known and where mother's wash tub did yeoman service Saturday nights. But I'll swear that my two cleanly associates tell me an average of 2 1/2 times a day how often they bathe, so that I practically have about 19 mental or imaginary baths a week. I can clean skin of it. I can assure you that my own prayers of gratitude will ascend with those of thousands of other sufferers in your behalf for your efforts to discourage this bathing in public."

About 10 per cent of the square surface of the body of a dirty person needs washing as often as once a day. The hands of most of us should be washed with soap and water at least three times a day, always before eating anything, always upon returning home from the movies or work or play or school or church or any place where the hands may have come in contact with other hands or surfaces or objects possibly soiled or contaminated by other persons.

If the black mustached fellow would devote his energy and enthusiasm to the wholesome business of exploiting suitable facilities for hand cleansing in lunch rooms and restaurants—many of which provide no such facilities yet enjoy the approval of the health authorities—I, for one, would break my rule and come out flatly for personal cleanliness.

I say about one-tenth of the body surface particularly exposing surfaces of a dirty person needs almost daily washing. Who doesn't know what I mean by a dirty person? All of us who wear excessive clothing are dirty persons. The excessive clothing prevents the natural cleansing of the body by the air. As a surface cleansing agent, oxygen is nature's own sapolio if the ad department will permit the metaphor—but the trouble is our superfluous or excessive clothing does not permit this natural sapolio to do its work. Let some of these demon bathers leave off their macerating, suffocating, and other conventional conventional outer garments and they won't have such a dirty feeling.

Those of us who are not conversational bathers can clearly recall the utterly demoralizing and useless cleanings we used to suffer behind the ears almost every week, despite the Saturday night immersion. Well, from prolonged close observation I know that a whole lot of these invertebrate tub porpoises go for years with nary a wash of the square foot of surface between the shoulder blades.

Bathe if you must; but don't boast about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Girls Should Ride

Is there any harm in letting a girl of 13 go horseback riding at the time of the period. Also at what time should she go to bed if she gets up at 7 a. m.—(Mrs. R. M. C.)

Answer—No. Not later than 9:30.

Second Cousins

Kindly tell me your version of second cousins marrying. Is it true the offspring are as a rule deformed?—(Jeanette)

Answer—I have no version. The experience of the world shows that second cousins had better not marry. Intermarriage has always proved a bad policy.

The offspring are less likely to be normal than would be the children of unrelated parents, but there is no particular tendency toward deformity in consanguinity.

The Egg Treatment

Kindly tell me if using an egg after washing the hair is good for the hair. Do you think it keeps it yellow?—(W. S.)

Answer—Perhaps that explains why most actors have such fine hair.

Special purpose eggs externally applied, has in hair dressing, but I know it doesn't do the hair any harm.

Magnesia
Please tell me the good effects and bad effects of eating magnesia. I was told by one physician that I should eat two cakes a week.—(P. R. T.)

Answer—It is a comparatively harmless anti-acid and when the stomach is very acid the magnesia has a mild laxative effect.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

PASSING OF THE BOSSES

With the passing of Richard Croker, former "boss" of Tammany Hall, the editors of the country believe there has been eliminated from American public life the stripe of politician whose lust it was that he "worked for his own pocket" all the time. Some editors have a kind word for Croker, others bitterly denounce him, but all agree that only in America could a man of his type risen to such heights in civic affairs.

"The day of the Crokers in politics is gone," the Newark, N. J., STAR-EAGLE points out. "We shall have leaders as strong and unscrupulous as we was, but we shall not have men reach his power who are so ignorant of the basic fact in human nature, which is that we are constantly moving toward better things." The only good thing that could be said in the favor of the veteran boss, the Newark NEWS believes, is that "he never broke" his pledged word. He was chimerical, imprudent in criticism, but by his own standards was a great man."

That there were two reasons why he never resumed his sway over Tammany following his retirement is pointed out by the Washington STAR. The first was that "race meetings took the place of political meetings," and the second was that his successor, Murphy, "proved to be as good a politician as, if not a better one than Mr. Croker." Under "boss rule" as the Pittsburgh LEADER points out, "the Tweeds and Crokers were brilliant examples of that 'invisible government' of which so much has been said in recent years. Croker always was behind the scenes. He held no office of authority. Yet no man in power, no man who aspired to power, and men who had lost power but hoped for a restoration, said no word, did not act, that was not directed by 'Dick' Croker." The chief factor in his success, the Brooklyn EAGLE is convinced was that "Croker has rarely been excelled in his understanding of men."

He died without the question "where did you get it?" as applied to his vast fortune, ever being answered the New York EVENING WORLD recalls, adding that "he was a born leader. He held a great organization in the hollow of his hand. He might have been remembered as a force in municipal progress. Instead he made his name a municipal warning. So it has stood, and it will stand." Yet in the opinion of the New Haven REGISTER, the "bosses did not pass with him. They do it differently now, and with more finesse, but New York is as thoroughly and completely bossed as it was in Croker's day of ruling it, and not a bit more ideally." Somewhat similar views are entertained by the SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN, which suggests that "whether New York City today is better governed than during Croker's entire career may be questioned, but there is evidence that it is." And the outstanding factor in Croker's entire career, the Utah PRESS believes was that he always kept his word. "His was an exceptionally remarkable career," it suggests, "and would have been possible in no other country."

Many of the conditions under which Croker was forced to operate have been forgotten the Baltimore AMERICAN points out as the "two price lists of 1900 and 1922 are different. But according to his lights Croker was the roughly honest. He fought in the open and he never dealt in hypocrisy. What he did lack was vision, the vision that makes men love their country not only for the hour but for eternity. The difference in vision is, rather fully, the chasmal difference between a Croker and a Roosevelt." Which kindly comment is bitterly contradicted by the Hartford COURANT which insists that "it is doubtful if even during the notorious 'day of Croker' the conditions of New York City's government had even been worse. Croker's career is an indictment of the municipal conditions that allow such a person to gain control of a city's government."

This also is the opinion of the Cincinnati TIMES STAR which asserts that "without patriotism, without civic honor, without shame, Croker played New York for what it was worth. In his America owes him but one debt. Croker's methods helped to speed the reaction against the old time boss. In these days, at least, the boss has to pretend to have the city's interests at heart."

That Croker was "really great in a correct sense of the term," the Knoxville SENTINEL successfully avers, "in his moderation. For notwithstanding the magnitude of the millions which he got away, we may well be liver to that Croker, reviewing his opportunities, most have felt like Warren Hastings, 'amazed at his own modesty.'" Fully recognizing that "Croker may not have been an exemplar for the American youth," the Salt Lake TRIBUNE points out that "at least his rise to commanding place among his fellows was another illustration of the possibilities of American environment." The Akron BEACON JOURNAL sharply rebuts suggestions that Croker's victory over Henry George was one of the greatest of his achievements recalling that it was the death of George which resulted in the collapse of the independent political movement.

It does not seem that Henry George and the eternal truths for which he fought will live in the regard and affections of men for centuries after his self-seeking and time-serving boss who opposed him has come to sleep in a forgotten grave, "which the kindly grasses hide from a deceived and betrayed people." Doubt also is expressed that "Croker ever was an American," and "betrayed people." Doubt also is expressed that "he was an Irishman and when he got his he went back to Ireland to live as the rich man he had envied in his boyhood lived. He represented all that was bad in American politics."

Summing up Croker's entire career

the Lexington LEADER declares that "he was a relentless enemy, a loyal friend, a man who kept his word at any cost who was 'honest' within the limits of his strange code of morals, and a type which only a great American city could produce. In the Middle Ages he would have flourished as a robber baron or as a Robin Hood. But anywhere, and in any time, he would have forced his way to power with little regard for the ordinary standards of ethics. May his tribe decrease." And his death, the Butte, Mont., POST suggests, ends a career that was notorious, in the world's worst sense—he was conspicuous in the gang which these many years has managed to run this country's metropolises to their own enriching. They all get rich, and they manage to maintain their hold by letting some of their confederates get rich."

CROYDON AS A WORLD AIR PORT

London.—That the British Government intends to make Croydon the biggest air port in the world is announced by the PALL MALL GAZETTE. All continental air traffic will start from that point and both there, and at the French terminal at Le Bourget big modern hotels are to be opened.

Continuing the Gazette's aviation correspondent says—
"If civilian flying is to be hampered and fettered by red tape it will ultimately be strangled."

The Customs regulations need to be simplified. It has been irrefutably demonstrated that business concerns cannot be bothered with a multiplicity of official forms.

"More propaganda effort is needed, too. The advantages that accrue from the despatch of goods by air are not nearly sufficiently well known. Greater effort should be made to enlighten business houses with an extensive Continental clientele of the time that will be saved if parcels and mails are consigned 'per airway'."

"Whether it is realized by the Air Ministry or not—and the indications are in the negative—commercial aviation is as destined to become the war reserve of the nation as was the mercantile marine in the days of Queen Elizabeth."

The nation cannot afford to allow the authorities to close their eyes to this fact.
"Other nations have realized that flying has wrought a miracle of human progress, and that for all future traffic and intercourse, as well as for war, aircraft will be the only real factor."

"When in the last war aeroplanes worked in flights of five or six machines, in the next they will fly by whole battalions. The sky will not be darkened as the melodramatic phrase suggests, but it will be full of fighting swarms."

"The journey across the Atlantic will, ere another decade has passed, take a day."

India, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand will be reached in times varying from three or four days to a week."

"They will be brought as near to each other as were London and Edinburgh in the days of stage coaches."

"This is no fantastic fairy tale, no wild imagining, but a coming fact, as wonderful as the flying horses and enchanted carpets in the 'Arabian Nights.'"

"And the part that will be played by Great Britain, in all this great future development will depend on the official attitude towards civil aviation now."

AND GANDHI WORE SPATS

London.—Spatz and a top-hat are more familiar to Gandhi, the Indian revolutionist now serving a term for incitement to a turban and bare feet according to the DAILY EXPRESS.

"Gandhi has hoped for arrest for years," says the paper. He had trouble with General Smuts in South Africa in 1894 and again in 1914. In the latter year he was defeated by Smuts.

Gandhi is a pleasant-spoken, amiable, and very interesting man of the world. It is all wrong to imagine that he is one of those Indian fanatics with a dirty turban on his head and bare feet pattering on the pavement.

The turban and bare feet are useful accessories at the proper time, but there are those in London who remember Gandhi's feet covered with white spats and a shiny top hat over his lustrous eyes.

The trouble with this gentleman, as with so many men of the same type, is that when he comes face to face with authority he promises to be a good boy the next day—but the next day he goes out and repeats his offense with added zeal.

Millions of his followers in India are under the impression that he is really superhuman. But he comes of a family of politicians. His father, a chief minister of the state of Porbandar for many years, Gandhi came to London as a young man, studied law, and was called to the bar. When he returned to India he took a vow of poverty, gave up his practice, and turned religious.

When the Boer War came he organized an Indian Red Cross unit, served with it in South Africa and was mentioned in dispatches for his services. In 1904 when plague broke out in Johannesburg, Gandhi opened a private hospital before the authorities were ready to act. During the black rebellion in Natal he led a corps of stretcher-bearers.

A few years ago the Kaiser's Hindoo medal was conferred on him by Lord Hardinge of Penshurst, Viceroy of India. He returned it a couple of years ago.

Gandhi's ideal is an India without European civilization, which he regards as coming from the devil.

Matter Of Confidence

An insane woman escapes from the asylum at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. When captured, she has walked 40 miles in one day.

Such spurts of energy are common among the insane. It often requires half a dozen strong men to overpower a maniac and get him into a padded cell.

Take a sane man, a weakling, who cannot lift 100 pounds. Five minutes later, if he suddenly goes crazy, he can easily lift 500.

Strength of muscle and power to accomplish are largely matters of confidence. Weakness is lack of confidence, fear—all in the imagination. You are what you think you are, no more, only occasionally less.

HYPNOTISM
Ralph H. Seaman, freshman at New Hampshire College, got interested in hypnotism and tried it on his room-mate.

It worked—so well, in fact, that Seaman couldn't bring his subject out of the hypnotic trance. Druggists and physicians finally awakened the victim from his coma.

Student Seaman says he is through with hypnotism.
Whether you believe in the occult or not, it is a dangerous buzz-saw to monkey with. Hypnotism and psychic research have their scientific value. Like dynamite, they are risky for amateurs, especially in effects on imagination.

WHY
Tobacco companies say that production of cigarettes is 18 per cent less than a year ago and 16 per cent below 1920.

Clear output also is declining. Pipe tobacco and snuff are making only mild gains.

America is smoking less. Why?

The answer is, nerves are calming down from high tension of wartime. Nervous systems, returning to normal, have less craving for stimulant.

DANDELIONS

The crop of dandelions is phenomenally big this year in most parts of the country. Home brewers are keenly filling their baskets, will chuckle that Nature in this instance lines up against prohibition.

Back of this is in interesting piece of vegetable-world biology.

The dandelion family last year discovered what amounted to a national campaign to exterminate it by robbing it of the blossoms that play "stork" in dandeliondom.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur preserve color and bring back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. adv.

HUGE AUDIENCE SEES H. S. PLAY IN AUDITORIUM

Young Thespians Give "Clarence" in Very Creditable Fashion

Kaukauna.—Approximately 500 people, one of the largest crowds which ever attended a performance in the city auditorium witnessed the high school senior class play "Clarence" given Thursday evening. The play was presented without a hitch, every character taking his part well.

The noncommittal Clarence, played by John Hale, provoked considerable laughter as did the two "children" of the play, Cora and Bobby Wheeler, whose parts were played by Loraine Hansen and Fred Mueller Mark Griffith, as the head of a big business concern and the head of a quarrelling family, did exceptionally well. Esther Piepenberg as Mrs. Wheeler, successfully portrayed the sufferings of an incompetent and jealous wife. She was stepmother of Cora and Bobby, and required the services of Miss Pinney, the governess, who really is Miss Lorraine Hansen. Miss Pinney's position in the Wheeler household became rather uncomfortable when Mr. Wheeler expressed his fondness for her in a conversation which was overheard by the jealous wife.

Joseph Schlude took the part of Dinwiddie the butler in real butler style and Ruth Trettin played Della, the maid. Rueben Goese appeared as Hubert Stem, divorced man who attempted to force his attentions on Miss Pinney by appearing to court Cora, who was in Miss Pinney's charge. Mr. Stem was the "Villain" of the play. However, in the fourth act which had stationed in the Wheeler home, the climax occurred the "villain" of Hubert Stem brought no triumph to him and the real character of Clarence was brought out.

In "Who's Who", the Wheeler family found he was an entomologist, or bug man as he characterized himself, who before the war had been holding a position of importance in laboratories in New York. After explanations Miss Pinney found that Clarence Smith was not such a bad name and after agreeing she would let Clarence tell her about bugs, a story which would take all his life, Clarence said, the two left the Wheeler home together.

Grocer Thankful

"I had been sick nearly 20 years with stomach trouble and was slowly starving to death as everything I ate caused terrible gas and pain and my food did not digest. I was reduced to 115 pounds. A friend advised me to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy about 4 months ago, which I did and now weigh 151 lbs. and can eat anything. I am very thankful for Mayr's Wonderful Remedy." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists. adv.

If Back's Lame or Kidneys Bother

Drink Plenty of Water and Milk—Start Flushing Them in the Morning

Nine people out of ten overlook the fact that the kidneys like the bowels get clogged and lazy and need a purifying flushing now and then to help these delicately constructed organs filter all the waste and toxins (Poisons) out of the blood; otherwise there is a retention in your system of Uric Acid and poisonous matter which permitted to remain causes pain and dull misery in kidney region, headaches, rheumatic pains, disturbed rest and all sorts of annoying bladder troubles that excite and irritate the entire urinary system, creating distress.

To have strong, healthy kidneys and bladder, you simply must keep your kidneys clean and active so that they are capable of easily and normally filtering and expelling the poisons, neutralizing the acids and freeing your system of urinous wastes. No artificial drugs are necessary. Merely secure a package of Dr. Carey's PRESCRIPTION NO. 777 (Tablets or Liquid).

Schlitz Bros. Co. and all good drug-gists have it. Take a little right after eating for a few days and your sluggish, tired out kidneys will then work with ease. It never disappoints, is pure, tastes good and for your health's sake its small cost is negligible. Ten days test will not disappoint you or druggist will refund your money. Insist on genuine. adv.

GREENVILLE COW OWNERS REALIZE SPLENDID PROFIT

Grade Holstein Owned by Fred C. Kaphingst Establishes Best Record

Records of 365 pounds of butterfat or more were made by 29 out of 246 cows of Greenville Cow Testing association during the third year of the organization's existence, according to annual reports compiled by the official tester, C. V. Schmidt.

The cow with the highest average for the year was a grade Holstein owned by Fred C. Kaphingst. She produced 364.2 pounds of butterfat. Another excellent record was made by a grade Guernsey owned by John Frederick. This animal finished second with 478.2 pounds of butterfat.

Mr. Kaphingst's herd of 11 grade purebred Holsteins also took first place. Second place went to the Frederick herd. The average value of fat produced by the former's herd was 42 cents a pound, and the cost of production averaged 22 cents a pound. The Frederick herd produced fat at the average value of 42 cents a pound with a production cost of 20 cents.

WATER DROPPED 14 INCHES IN 15 DAYS

Water in Fox river is receding daily and now is 14 inches below the highest point reached the latter part of April when property was threatened. Government employees are no longer worried over the situation and mill men are again feeling secure. Plants that were compelled to shut down because of high water are again in operation and the trouble caused by backwater is gradually disappearing. It is not expected, however, that navigation will be resumed for several days.

CLEAN YOUR OWN CLOTHES

Why pay a cleaner to remove spots from your clothing when you can easily do it yourself at home? The one important factor in this work is the use of the proper method for the particular stain you wish to eradicate.

This knowledge can be obtained by consulting an authoritative booklet issued by the Department of Agriculture which tells how to remove 35 different kinds of stains from clothing.

Our Washington Information Bureau will secure a free copy of this publication for anyone who sends two cents in stamps to pay the return postage. Be sure to write your name and address clearly on the lines of the coupon.

C. C. Questionnaires Express Many Ideas For Community Effort

More Adequate Transportation is Suggested as Suitable Work for Chamber of Commerce—More Factories are Wanted.

Local transportation by motorbus to parts of Appleton not served by street cars is one of the proposals the industrial and transportation committee of the chamber of commerce will be asked to consider as the result of the questionnaire recently submitted to the people of the city.

Many more proposals relating to street car, automobile and freight traffic are grouped for this committee to act upon. Some of these also were referred to the community welfare committee and were mentioned in a previous article in the Post-Crescent.

Grouping of replies by committees has been completed. Each committee now will study its recommendations for community activity and recommend to the board of directors the projects that ought to make up the major program for the year.

The bridge problem, also a community welfare activity, will be studied by the industrial group. There were 32 requests for action of some kind on this.

An effort should be made to obtain more manufacturing plants for Appleton, to take up vacant sites in the west end, was one suggestion.

Other suggestions for the industrial committee were:

Improvements of transportation facilities from places like Chilton, Shiocton and Seymour.

Motorbus service at the north end of the city.

Encourage infant industries now operating here.

More car lines and better car service.

Regulation of buses running in competition with street cars, and fixing of similar fares.

Do away with industrial smoke nuisance.

Better roads leading to Appleton and some plan to keep them open in the winter, and establishment of a rest room were some of the major suggestions to the rural affairs committee. Others included in the replies and not named elsewhere are:

Establishment of community building in big ravine on College ave., with railway siding at rear.

Provide money to keep roads open in winter.

See that Appleton has a sales pavilion.

Public rest room and public auto parking spaces.

Waiting room near busy corner, with checking system, for people who come on street cars or busses.

Establishing of marketing place where farmers could sell products direct to consumer on certain days.

Inducement to more farmers to buy goods in Appleton.

Keep high school large enough to accommodate farmers' children.

Renovating of trunk lines, improvement of transportation, erection of community building and other ideas already mentioned are brought to attention of the retail trades committee.

It is suggested also that quacks be driven out of town and that carnivals be forbidden to come here.

The publicity and convention committee has these problems to deal with:

Give Appleton all possible advertising.

Encourage people to live in Appleton so business can grow.

Boost Appleton Building & Loan association so funds will be available to take care of loans for new homes.

Let public know what they can buy that is made in Appleton.

Place streets properly.

Remove streets and change numbers on houses.

Keep lake collectors away.

Remove billboards that mar appearance of main highways chiefly at Second-ave., Bridge-st. and Maple Grove-st.

Dance at Hampel's Corners, Sunday, May 14.

POOR DETOUR ON ROAD FROM OSHKOSH TO FONDY

A large number of criticisms have been made about the condition of the detour road south of Oshkosh between that city and the Morgan farm. It is reported by autoists from Appleton and vicinity who drove to Fondy last week that the road is narrow and also very soft in places. Members of the Winnebago-co. highway commission have admitted that the road is in poor shape and said improvements will be made at once.

THE WEATHER: Pleasant.

Preparation of the May issue of Community Betterment has been begun by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce. Considerable material of interest to members is being compiled and the publication probably will appear next week.

TED LEWIS EASY FOR CARPENTIER

Frenchman Put English Middle-weight Champion Away in First Round

London — Georges Carpentier won over Ted (Kid) Lewis by a knockout in the first round of their scheduled twenty round match for the world's light heavyweight championship here Thursday night.

Carpentier's victory was achieved after two minutes and fifteen seconds of fighting.

When the bell rang for the start of the fight Lewis rushed and got at his opponent. They clinched and the referee stopped the fight and warned both men. Lewis rushed again and caught Carpentier with a couple of lefts and rights. Carpentier held and was warned by the referee, who was being kept very busy.

Carpentier tried his right and just missed one to the jaw. They again clinched and on the break away Carpentier, with a right to the jaw sent Lewis to the boards to be counted out. It was a fast round and a sensational finish. Carpentier was holding and hit his man on the break away. He was entitled to do it, but the spectators raised a clamor.

WANT CLOTHES AT "Y" FOR RUSSIANS

Dormitory Men Have Campaign Under Way — Expected Public to Donate

Ten of the men living in the Y M C A dormitories have been appointed as a committee to conduct the Appleton campaign for winter clothing outfits for Russian students and teachers as part of the countywide collection of 50,000 outfits.

C. L. Reymont, activities secretary, is in charge of the committee, which has as members Chester Hill, C. T. Mace, H. C. Tindison, L. E. Campbell, A. J. Roebn, H. P. Madsen, Don C. Dickinson, Guy Barlow, Arthur Holmes and H. H. Gottsleben.

Similar committees are being appointed in all Y M C A's in the United States. There are 51,000 dormitory men, and it is estimated that if each gives one outfit the goal will be reached easily.

The appeal for this work comes from E. T. Colton, associate general secretary of the international committee of the Y M C A. Mr. Colton has been in Russia in recent months as a member of the staff of the American Relief administration.

Herbert Hoover also is lending his aid and influence in the campaign, which he interprets as a "ready and practical means for promptly obtaining a considerable quantity of the outfit needed." He points out that the appeal is coming when men are discarding their winter clothing.

The request is for suits that are in good usable condition and for caps and shoes. Members of the committee will call for all articles which people want to give, if the Y M C A or some dormitory man is notified where to call for them. Telephone calls may be made to the association office, No. 2266 or the packages may be left at the building.

WOMEN ARE BETTER DRIVERS THAN MEN

Motorcop Bogan Has Kind Word to Say About Women Automobilists

Women are more careful drivers than men according to Wilbur Bogan, Outagamie county motorcop, whose hawklike eye marks a speeder has found it difficult to escape.

"There may be some truth in the charge that a woman loses her head easiest," he said Thursday as he left the court house to resume his vigilance only after he had introduced 11 speeders to Judge A. M. Spencer. "She may, in fact, lose control of the car and all that—but I have never seen one that was speeding, and I have watched a good many. And if one should, I don't doubt a bit but that she'd admit it."

"But you take some of these birds up in court," he added. "To hear 'em talk, you would never think they could drive. Most all of them raise a fuss about it, whether they have a speedometer or not. But one of the men who was up this morning acted like a gentleman all the way through."

APPLETON CONCERN GETS HIGHWAY JOB

Winnebago County Considers Repairs on Appleton-Neenah Road

Simpson and Parker, Appleton, have been awarded the contract by the Winnebago county road and bridge committee for building nine tenths of a mile of 16 foot concrete pavement on the Neenah-Mikeville rd. The Appleton company's bid was $9,485.25, it being stipulated that the county is to furnish the sand, stone and cement. I. o. b. cars and quarry at Neenah.

Simpson & Parker also succeeded in getting the contract for construction of one of four county aid bridges in Winnebago co. Their contract price for building Booth bridge, town of Omro, is $2,450, the county to furnish sand, stone and cement.

The road and bridge committee of Winnebago co. this week inspected a section of the Appleton-Neenah rd., which is in need of repair, to determine what work is to be done. This road is said to be the first concrete road to be built in that county. It was constructed eight or nine years ago.

NEW FREIGHT RATES ON COAL MEAN BIG SAVING

FREIGHT FROM GREEN BAY CUT 35 CENTS A TON

Thousands of Dollars Will be Saved Appleton Consumers by New Tariff

Substantial reductions in freight rates on coal, which are expected to save thousands of dollars for Appleton consumers became effective on Wednesday, it was announced by W. B. Basing, agent for the Northwest. These reductions are a result of an order by the Wisconsin railroad commission. The new schedule was ordered to become effective April 28 but the railroads were unable to prepare their tariffs for that date and a postponement was secured until May 10.

The biggest saving is on coal shipped from Green Bay. The old rate on soft coal from Green Bay to Appleton was $1.35 a ton and the new rate is $1.00. The old rate from Milwaukee, Sheboygan and Manitowoc on soft coal also was $1.35 a ton and the new rate is $1.20.

The reduction on hard coal rates is almost as great. Under the new schedule hard coal will be shipped from Green Bay to Appleton for $1.15 a ton as compared with the old rate of $1.48 1/2. The rate from Milwaukee, Manitowoc and Sheboygan has been cut from $1.48 1/2 to $1.37. The freight on coke from Milwaukee has been reduced from $1.60 a ton to $1.49.

Miss Gertrude Goemans is at La Crosse to attend the graduation exercises at St. Francis hospital and to visit her sister, Miss Della Goemans, who is a student nurse there. Miss Goemans is spending a two week vacation at La Crosse.

How to Banish Piles

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay Schlitz Bros. and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

WANT PEABODY TO BECOME LEADER OF CHURCH IN STATE

Offered Position of State Superintendent of Congregational Churches

Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of First Congregational church for nearly five years, has been offered the position of state superintendent of Congregational churches in Wisconsin at the annual meeting of the Association of Congregational churches in Rhineland this week. Dr. Peabody is considering the offer and is expected to announce his decision soon. The offer it is said, involves an increase in salary and residence in Madison. The appointment rests with the state board of directors.

It was the increase in the denomination in Wisconsin requires a broader leadership. Developments at the state university, where more than a thousand Congregational students are in attendance, require the type of leadership the state board of directors apparently believes Dr. Peabody possesses.

The conference at Rhineland was attended by Dr. Peabody, the Rev. C. Willard Cross and the Rev. J. W. Wilson, district superintendent. Dr. Peabody was on the program to deliver an address on "Christianity in Industrial Relations." The Rev. Mr. Wilson presented a report on Organic Unity. The conference closed Wednesday night.

Wilfred Matthes is visiting in Chicago for a week.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Had the time come for LUCINDA DRECE, wealthy, young and beautiful, to break with her husband, BELAMY? This was the thought running through Lucinda's mind as she lunched with her friend, FANNY LONTAINE, at the Ritz. After five years of married life, Bel's insatiable appetite for cheap flirtation and his heavy drinking had almost destroyed her love. Should she have married?

RICHARD DAUBNEY, "good old Dobbin," who had now returned to New York.

That very morning she had, by accident, overheard her husband making a luncheon appointment with MRS. AMELIE SEVERN, the most recent object of his attentions. In the lobby, she separated from her friends for an instant and was confronted by her husband, slightly intoxicated.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Thought I'd look in on your party. You know, you asked me—"

She could not trust her tongue. If she said more in her anger, she would say too much. She cried all in a breath: "Well, go away, then!"

I don't want you. I won't have you!—and pushing past Bel, fled into the cloakroom.

He drew himself up sharply and frowned out all indications of his embarrassment, assuming what he believed to be a look of haughty indifference.

His gaze focused intelligently upon the glass case that displays the wares of the hotel florist. Women liked flowers. But there were four in Lucinda's party. Her guests would think it funny if he joined them, bringing flowers for his wife only. A tough problem. He decided to step round to the club and mull it over.

He had disappeared by the time Lucinda showed herself again. Outwardly mistress of herself, she resumed her chair as Richard Daubney passed with his luncheon party, and made directly for her corner. Instantaneously Lucinda experienced a slightly nervous shock and found herself again the self-contained, the young woman of the world whom nothing could dismay.

Dobbin knew everybody except the Lontaines; and when the flutter created by his introduction had subsided, he found a chair by Lucinda's side and when the conversation swung to a pageant he took advantage of the general interest to detach Lucinda's attention.

"I couldn't resist the temptation to butt in, Cinda. Hope you don't mind."

"It's always nice to see you."

"I can see you're troubled about something because I know so much better than anybody else. I'll lay odds no one else has noticed any thing, but to my seeing eyes you've been flying signals of distress all during luncheon. That being so, it wouldn't be decent of me not to give you a hand and stand by in case I'm needed—now would it?"

Momentarily Lucinda contended against temptation. Then, "You are a dear, Dobbin," she said almost regretfully. "But it isn't fair of you to see too much. If it's true I have secrets I don't want to share. It would be kinder to let me keep them—don't you think?"

Jean Sedley was claiming her attention. "What do you think of that, Cinda? Isn't it a ripping idea?"

"Afraid I didn't hear—I was flirting with Dobbin."

"Yes, I know. But Mr. Lontaine has just made a priceless suggestion about the pageant. He says we can have moving pictures taken as we enter the ballroom and shown before the evening is over."

"I don't know," Lucinda demurred. "It must be a weird sensation."

"Not one you need be afraid of," Lontaine promised. "If you don't mind my saying so, you would screen wonderfully, Mrs. Drece."

"You think so really?"

"Tell you what," Lontaine offered eagerly: "Suppose you take ten, what? No trouble at all to fix it up for you. Take us all, for that matter, just as we are. What do you say?"

"I say it's perfectly splendid!" Jean Sedley declared. "We'll all love it. When can you arrange it?"

"This afternoon, if that suits everybody. Only have to telephone, and in half an hour they'll be all ready for us. Shall I?" Lontaine got out of his chair. "Do say yes, all of you. Mrs. Drece? I know the others will if you do."

"I don't mind," Lucinda agreed hesitantly.

"Right-O. Give me five minutes."

As Lontaine had promised, so had he performed. This cinema chap he knew, Culp, had professed himself only too delighted.

With two cars at its disposal, the party split up into threes. Mrs. Sedley, Mrs. Guest, and Lontaine leading the way. On the point of entering her car after Fanny, however, Lucinda recalled her bridge engagement and turned back to telephone that she would be late.

Having seen no more of Belamy since their encounter she had dismissed the possibility of his returning. The surprise was so much the more unwelcome, consequently when on leaving the booth she saw her husband, with his hat on the back of his head and his arms full of lavender orchids, wavering irresolutely in the entrance to the Palm Room, surveying with a dashed expression its now all but deserted spaces. With sickening contempt, Lucinda made hastily for the revolving door.

Simultaneously Bel caught sight of her and with a blurred travesty of his really charming smile and a faltering parody of that aid of gallant activity which she had once thought so engaging, moved to intercept Lucinda. And finding her escape cut off, she paused and awaited him with a stony countenance.

"Ah! there you are, eh, Linda! 'Fraid I missed you. Sorry couldn't get back sooner, but—"

"I'm not," Lucinda interrupted.

"But look here, Linda: be reasonable—"

"I think I have been—what you call reasonable—long enough—too long!"

Belamy hesitated, nervously moistening his lips.

"Here—take these flowers, won't you? Plenty for you and all your friends."

Again Lucinda defeated his attempt to disburden himself. "Oh, Bel!" she cried sadly—"how can you be such a fool?"

"How'm I a fool? Thought I was going to please you... I've made arrangements to have the afternoon free, just to be with you. We'll go somewhere."

"We will not," Lucinda told him inflexibly.

"I don't mind tagging along—"

"Sorry, but I don't want you."

Injudiciously again, Belamy elected to show his teeth: "See here, where are you going? I've got a right to know—"

"Have you, Bel? Think again. I never ask you such questions. If I did, you'd either lose your temper or lie to me, and justice is no man ought to be asked to stand by in his affairs. So—I leave you to your affairs—and only ask that you leave me to mine."

Neither spoke in the clash of wills until Belamy's weakened, his eyes shifted, and he stepped aside, slightly sobered.

"Please," he begged in a turn of penitence. "Didn't mean... had to pull myself together somehow to talk business at luncheon—"

"Oh! it was a business luncheon, then?" asked Lucinda sweetly, pausing.

"Of course."

"You leave me to infer that your affair with Amelia has reached the point where you take her to the Clique Club to talk terms," Belamy's jaw sagged, his eyes were blank with consternation. "What else do you wish me to think, Belamy?"

He made a pitiable effort to pull himself together. "Look here, Linda, you're all wrong about this—misinformed. I can explain—Damn it, you can't refuse."

"Can't? Go home, Bel, get some sleep. When you wake up, if you still think you have anything to say—consider it carefully before you ask me to listen. Remember what I told you now: you've lied to me for the last time, one more lie will end everything between us, finally and for all time."

VIII

On the far West Side, the brougham drew to a shuddering stop before a row of brick buildings. That they were united in one service was proved by the legend running from end to end of the row beneath its second-story windows:

ALMA DALEY STUDIOS—CULP CINEMAS, INC.—BEN CULP, PRES.

This was the nursery in which what Mr. Culp for his press agent had brilliantly imaged as the youngest, fairest sister of the plastic arts was fostering the finest flower of its expression, to wit, the artistry of Alma Daley, in private life, Mrs. Culp.

With every symptom of disgust the doorkeeper growled at Lontaine: "Tees kin g'wan—but moin yer shep; they's a darrrrk turn in the stairs." He pressed a button and a wire door swung back, the party fled through and stumbled up two flights of creaking stairs to a tiny landing upon which a number of doors stood all closed, each sternly stencilled: PRIVATE.

One of the doors opened hastily and ejected a nervously ingratiating young man, Mr. Lane, secretary to Mr. Culp. He shook each visitor warmly by the hand, then threw wide another of the PRIVATE doors.

"This is the main stage, ladies. Miss Daley is working on one of the sets now, making the final scenes or her latest picture. The Girl in the Dark, so if you'll be kind enough not to talk out loud... Miss Daley is very, er, temperamental, you understand..."

Reverently the barbarians tiptoed into the studio and huddled in an awe-stricken group.

THE STAGE

Mary Pickford
The millions of readers of Frances Hodgson Burnett's world-loved novel, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," now playing at the Apollon Theatre, will be delighted to know that Mary Pickford has preserved all its quaintness and charm, and has been especially faithful to the costumes and manners of the period depicted so vividly by the author.

As a vehicle for the lovely Mary, this story is ideal, running as it does the entire gamut of emotional drama, pathos and riotous comedy. It gives her the greatest opportunity she ever has had for the display of her brilliant genius.

Through the medium of double exposure, that most baffling of photographic methods, Miss Pickford is able to appear as two different characters in the same scene, thus producing the most perfect illusion possible.

Miss Pickford is seen in a greater variety and a more novel set of costumes in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" than in any play in which she has ever before appeared. The display of women's fashion typical of the Eighties will undoubtedly prove very interesting to style devotees, especially when contrasted with the scanty attire of today.

New Fruit Store
The City Market & Fruit Store will open for business Saturday at 744 Col. lege-ave., and will operate daily with a complete line of seasonal fruits. The owners of the Palace ice cream parlor have charge of the new enterprise, using the former candy kitchen west of the refreshment parlor for the purpose.

Martin Smith, formerly employed by Horsfordsberger Brothers, will leave next week for Niagara, N. D. The trip will be made by automobile.

USES TELEPHONE TO BREAK IN OPERA

Virginia Rae Wins Place on Stage by "Long Distance" Singing to Director

"Well, then wait a minute and I'll sing for you right now!"

And Virginia Rae, at one end of the telephone wire, started to sing the Bell Song from Dinorah to William Wade Hinshaw, concert director, at the other end of the wire.

Hinshaw was starting on a trip when Miss Rae called him. He hadn't any time to listen. He was busy. And what did a little unknown amount to anyhow? But Virginia sang!

She was bent on breaking into New York. And so she did, singing to Hinshaw over the telephone.

Hinshaw said no one but a woman would attempt such a thing as gave her a job without seeing her!

SHE ARRIVES!

Virginia Rae is now a recognized coloratura soprano. She made her debut a few seasons ago with the Boston Opera Company. She is a Louisville, Ky., girl and, since she's a descendant of Edgar Allan Poe, writes poetry and puts it to music and then sings it at her own concerts.

Her best known song is "Robin's Love Song."

"I find," says Rae, "that the clothing I am wearing makes such a difference in the quality of my singing."

"I can't sing unless I am dressed up!"

"Even for practicing I must have something becoming."

LIKES WHITE

"White is my favorite singing color," she continued, "and I never wear anything dark or dull when I'm appearing before an audience because of the effect it has on them."

"I spend almost as much time planning the clothes I shall wear when singing as I do practicing!"

"Why, they used to say when I was little, 'Just give Virginia a new dress and she'll sing her head off!'"

They didn't know whether I was going eventually to be a singing dressmaker or a dressmaking singer!

Adventures Of The Twins

Seven Mountains

Buckins said that he had an errand in his own country and that he'd leave the Twins with the Mushroom. If they didn't care.

"You've been a big help," he told them in parting. "and thank you very much. I hope you'll have no trouble finding the lost record of Longhead the Wizard, because I know the Diddlers are very clever, and the Kersnotts are very savage and there will be all sorts of trouble until it is found."

He disappeared then and the last the Twins saw of him was a pair of large boots stalking away over the ree-tops.

"Come," said the Magical Mushroom, "you have your Magic Green Shoes. You'll have to go at once to the first mountain. It was there that Nimble Toes lost the record that the Diddlers were with the blue hair. I was more handsome than the Kersnotts with the green beard."

The first mountain is made of rubber and is one can cross it. That is fatal at all or no fairy who forgets the charm!" said the Magical Mushroom. "And Nimble Toes forgot his charm. The minute he touched the mountain he gave such a bounce that he landed on a distant island and he record went spinning out of his hand. No one can tell where it went. Whether to the bottom of the sea or up to the sky. And as long as it is lost the Diddlers and the Kersnotts will be at war and there is no hope for peace because the question must be decided."

"Couldn't we go back to Longhead the Wizard and get him to say it over again?" said Nick.

"No, that wouldn't do," said the Mushroom. "Because Longhead won't say things twice. I've a suspicion that he forgets, but of course he won't let on. We'll have to find the record!"

Boston—And now comes Helen Lee Worthing, of Boston, holder of a prize for being the most beautiful girl in the United States, and once famous as a "Follies" girl, with a new philosophy on love.

She has just divorced her husband, Charles McDonald, Chicago advertising man.

She advises young married women thus:

"Never earn more money than your husband. Man is economically jealous of woman. He will forgive anything but his wife earning more coin than he does."

"He has always been the hunter, the bread winner, the protector—and he doesn't want to be deprived of his natural economic niche."

OUR FIRST YEAR

Chater 32 — My Almost Tragic Mistake

By a Bride

Why I so obstinately proceeded down the street, except from plain temper, I never shall know. As soon as I was quite sure that Mr. John Cuthbert Madison was pursuing his bride I felt decidedly better. But I kept on walking. Jack on the opposite side of the street and a little behind me.

Had I known anyone in the neighborhood I would have invented an excuse for a call, anything to relieve the tension of the situation. After we had turned and twisted through a dozen streets I wearied of the chase.

I wanted my man to overtake me. I had been so silly, Jack was so good. I'd be decent, I'd tell him so.

As I neared the park a sudden inspiration animated me. There was a certain lonely walk through the deep forest where Jack and I often had wandered. I would lure my husband to the familiar spot, and then I would surprise him: I would turn suddenly and then we would make up.

The steps of my pursuer lagged finally. I lost the sound of them. Doubtless they were deadened by the carpet of decaying leaves.

I smiled to think how obstinate my adorable husband could get when pushed too far. It was a discovery. Jack was obstinate merely because he didn't understand me not because there was a single disagreeable trait about him. I could hardly wait to make up.

It was warm after the spring rain. I was fagged when I reached the fallen tree in the secluded nook where

Jack and I often had rested in our engaged days. The log was damp but I sat down to listen for Jack's following step. I heard a twig snap. I calmly adjusted my hat, opened my handbag and powdered my nose daintily, the action was supposed to indicate my complete indifference to the man behind me.

Another twig snapped.

A heavy hand clutched my shoulder. I stiffened with terror. Jack never had touched me like that!

A rough voice growled close to my ear:

"Keep still! Give me them pearls! Quick!"

I looked up into the unshaven face of a red, vicious man.

The daring of the creature made me furiously angry.

"Take your hand away!" I cried as I sprang to my feet and faced the man, and behind also a small gun partially concealed in his huge hand.

"These are cheap beads, not pearls!" I explained. "They mean something to me. You can have my hand bag. There's money in it."

"Maybe. But this is a snappy looking job, alright. Good enough for me. Hand 'em over. Or shall I take 'em?"

"Here's my watch. I took it from my hand bag."

At that moment the bushes behind the man parted softly.

I smiled pleasantly at the gunman.

POLES PREPARE TO CARE FOR CHILDREN

Government Will Continue Work Started by U. S. Relief Administration

By Associated Press

Warsaw—A law to insure the continuance of free mass child feeding in Poland after the American Relief Administration withdraws on June next has just passed the Polish Diet and been ratified by the Council of Ministers.

In accordance with a clause in the Polish constitution which declares the state's responsibility for its children, the new legislation permits an appropriation of 2,000,000,000 marks to carry on for the first year the program which the American Relief Administration officials consider necessary for that period.

Four hundred thousand children are now receiving a meal a day from the American Relief Administration. These the Polish government will take over until September, 1922, when the number will be decreased to 300,000 who will be cared for until June, 1923. The cost will be borne jointly by the Central government and the communities. The former will supply the food and the latter will pay the overhead charges in the kitchens.

From April, 1919, when the American Relief Administration first began to operate in Poland until January of this year, 662,000,000 meals and $4,500,000 worth of clothing were distributed free by the Americans.

The quality is excellent and local growers are disposing of hundreds of cases daily to patrons who are canning them rather than take chances with home grown berries later on. Chater 32 — My Almost Tragic Mistake

By a Bride

Why I so obstinately proceeded down the street, except from plain temper, I never shall know. As soon as I was quite sure that Mr. John Cuthbert Madison was pursuing his bride I felt decidedly better. But I kept on walking. Jack on the opposite side of the street and a little behind me.

Had I known anyone in the neighborhood I would have invented an excuse for a call, anything to relieve the tension of the situation. After we had turned and twisted through a dozen streets I wearied of the chase.

I wanted my man to overtake me. I had been so silly, Jack was so good. I'd be decent, I'd tell him so.

As I neared the park a sudden inspiration animated me. There was a certain lonely walk through the deep forest where Jack and I often had wandered. I would lure my husband to the familiar spot, and then I would surprise him: I would turn suddenly and then we would make up.

The steps of my pursuer lagged finally. I lost the sound of them. Doubtless they were deadened by the carpet of decaying leaves.

I smiled to think how obstinate my adorable husband could get when pushed too far. It was a discovery. Jack was obstinate merely because he didn't understand me not because there was a single disagreeable trait about him. I could hardly wait to make up.

It was warm after the spring rain. I was fagged when I reached the fallen tree in the secluded nook where

Jack and I often had rested in our engaged days. The log was damp but I sat down to listen for Jack's following step. I heard a twig snap. I calmly adjusted my hat, opened my handbag and powdered my nose daintily, the action was supposed to indicate my complete indifference to the man behind me.

Another twig snapped.

A heavy hand clutched my shoulder. I stiffened with terror. Jack never had touched me like that!

A rough voice growled close to my ear:

"Keep still! Give me them pearls! Quick!"

I looked up into the unshaven face of a red, vicious man.

The daring of the creature made me furiously angry.

"Take your hand away!" I cried as I sprang to my feet and faced the man, and behind also a small gun partially concealed in his huge hand.

"These are cheap beads, not pearls!" I explained. "They mean something to me. You can have my hand bag. There's money in it."

"Maybe. But this is a snappy looking job, alright. Good enough for me. Hand 'em over. Or shall I take 'em?"

"Here's my watch. I took it from my hand bag."

At that moment the bushes behind the man parted softly.

I smiled pleasantly at the gunman.

POLES PREPARE TO CARE FOR CHILDREN

Government Will Continue Work Started by U. S. Relief Administration

By Associated Press

Warsaw—A law to insure the continuance of free mass child feeding in Poland after the American Relief Administration withdraws on June next has just passed the Polish Diet and been ratified by the Council of Ministers.

In accordance with a clause in the Polish constitution which declares the state's responsibility for its children, the new legislation permits an appropriation of 2,000,000,000 marks to carry on for the first year the program which the American Relief Administration officials consider necessary for that period.

Four hundred thousand children are now receiving a meal a day from the American Relief Administration. These the Polish government will take over until September, 1922, when the number will be decreased to 300,000 who will be cared for until June, 1923. The cost will be borne jointly by the Central government and the communities. The former will supply the food and the latter will pay the overhead charges in the kitchens.

From April, 1919, when the American Relief Administration first began to operate in Poland until January of this year, 662,000,000 meals and $4,500,000 worth of clothing were distributed free by the Americans.

The Time To Be Careful

Now that warm weather is here, more care and precaution should be taken in the selection of meat. Poor meat will not be able to stand the warm temperature without spoiling, while good meat will still maintain its rich, juicy flavor, if it is kept in a cool refrigerator. Extra precaution is taken by us when buying meat for warm weather, so that the quality of meat that is placed in our refrigerators will be above our usual standard, if such be possible.

OUTAGAMIE COUNTY LEAGUE RACE OPENS SUNDAY

Six Fast Baseball Clubs Ready To Play For Title In Strong Semi-pro Loop

Final Arrangements for Pennant Chase Made at Meeting Thursday; Great Interest is Shown in County.

Final arrangements for the pennant race in the Outagamie County baseball league were made at a meeting of club representatives Thursday night in the Post-Crescent office. The six teams in the circuit will swing into action Sunday afternoon in the first games of a 60 game race. The Interlakes will meet Hortonville at Hortonville, Dale will play at Freedom and Black Creek will play at Kimberly.

Managers reported at the meeting they have their players signed to contracts and are ready for the opening games Sunday. The contracts will be in the hands of the league president Friday. Umpires have been appointed and will be assigned to games Saturday. First class playing fields have been made in the different towns and the diamonds are in excellent shape. The clubs playing at home Sunday have arranged opening day ceremonies and all the teams will appear on the field in new uniforms and with new equipment.

It is expected a fast brand of baseball will be played in the Outagamie county loop this season. All the teams are composed of fast semi-professional players who are capable of putting up a high class article of the National pastime. It is believed the pennant race will be close with every team in the running for the championship trophy.

The flag chase will be played in two divisions. The first half of the schedule ends on an even basis and after the second half of the schedule is finished the winners of the first half and second half will play a series of games for the championship trophy.

Fastest Man In Baseball

Maurice Archdeacon will have his fling in the major leagues next season. Detroit recently purchased him, paying $15,000 and several players.

Archdeacon is the fastest man in baseball. Ty Cobb says that George T. Cobb, Stallings manager of the Rochester International club for which Archdeacon is now playing center field goes further than that. Stallings says Archdeacon is the fastest man that ever played baseball. Stallings has been in the game more years than he cares to tell. He has seen all the fast flyers that ever broke away from the plate for first.

Of medium height and well built, Archdeacon has the legs. Charlie Paddock has the legs like Archdeacon's legs that spell power and drive. There have been few good runners without such legs.

There has been an argument regarding the comparative speed of Paddock and Archdeacon. If these two ever should meet it would be only fair to have two events one circling the bases and the other over 100 yards straightway. Undoubtedly the result would then be that Archdeacon would win the base circling event and the straight dash winner would be Paddock.

Few men have been able to break away from the plate as fast as Archdeacon. If Paddock could break from the line as fast as Archdeacon breaks from the plate it is quite likely that he would cover the century in nine seconds flat.

Archdeacon is not regarded as a hard hitter. Still, he battled better in the International League last season than he did in the South Atlantic League where he came from. Ty Cobb says he should bat better than 300 in the American League. "He will be able to hunt his way into the 300 division," says Cobb.

He is a good judge of a fly ball and he can throw. Cobb will attest to that. In an exhibition game between Rochester and Detroit at American City, this spring Cobb tried to go from first to third on a single into center. Archdeacon threw out Cobb by 15 feet at third base. Cobb trying to beat the play by a desperate slide sprained his ankle and was out of the lineup for nearly a month.

MAURICE ARCHDEACON

"I should have known better than to try for two bases on Archdeacon's arm," admitted Cobb the next day. "It was a foolish play."

And it was that day that Detroit decided to land Archdeacon for the Tiger outfield.

APPLETON BALL PLAYERS READY FOR FIRST GAME

Spencer Heath Will Not Be in Menasha Lineup in Sunday's Contest

Workmen have been busy all this week putting Brandt field in shape for the opening game of the Fox River Valley Baseball league pennant race here next Sunday afternoon when the Appleton and Menasha teams clash. Repairs have been made on the grand stand and bleachers. A new box office has been erected and new benches for the players have been built. The infield and outfield have been leveled and the diamond will be smooth and fast for Sunday's tussle.

The Appleton entry in the flag chase will be in top shape for the battle. All men on the club are working out every day this week and will be ready to start the season at a fast clip. Spencer Heath will not pitch for Menasha Sunday. Heath injured his arm last fall and was forced to make a trip to "Bonesetter." Rease this week. The arm expert ordered the Menasha hurler not to work next Sunday and doubts if he will be able to get into the game for several weeks. Billy Dodge, former Juneau twirler has been secured to oppose Appleton on the mound in the opening game. Dodge is a classy pitcher and Menasha fans expect him to carry their club to victory. Dobratz Menasha second sacker, will not be in the lineup Sunday. He submitted to an operation this week and will not be out for several weeks. Schmidt of Oshkosh will take his place at second base until he is able to get back into the game.

here Thursday for a bout to be fought about June 1. The promoters reserved the right to make it a 12 round no decision affair at the Jersey City arena or a 15 round decision match at the New York Velodrome. The only stipulation made was that Britton should weigh in at the welter weight limit of 147 pounds. Leonard will fight at a weight somewhat above the regular lightweight of 135 pounds. The match was arranged by the Madison Square Garden corporation.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

Here's Your Decision

If a ball first strikes foul and then rolls onto fair territory and finally settles on fair territory between home and first, or home and third, or passes over any portion of first base or third base, it is a fair ball. Among many fans there is the belief that a ball that first hits in foul territory cannot later become a fair ball. That, of course, is a mistake.

Here Is One Umpire Who Is Idol Of Fans And Big Gate Card In Dixie Loop

Harry Johnston Has Singular Ways and Hundreds of Persons go to Ball Parks to See Him Do His Stuff.

By Bill Evans
Harry Johnston is one umpire who is a box office attraction. Johnston is the most important figure in the South Atlantic League and the baseball idol of Dixieland.

Johnston has been in the International League and umpired here and there but his place is down in Dixie. There is a certain histrionic gift in Johnston. Whenever he umpires the fact is widely advertised and he is a big gate card. He receives the high salary paid an official in his class league. More people will go out to see Johnston umpire than will come to the ball park to watch any individual player.

Johnston is singular in his ways. There is not another umpire like him. He talks throughout the game and addresses remarks to the players, to the fans, to everybody in general. When he steps on the playing field he vigorously brushes off the home plate. The he vigorously dusts off the pitching rubber. He walks to players benches and addresses the athletes in this manner.

"Now, boys, a lot of 'pop' today. Fight 'em fight 'em fight 'em." He emphasizes his remarks by waving his arms with much zest. In this act he resembles a college cheer leader.

When Johnston announces the batter he spells the name of pitcher and catcher of each team. He always spells the name of a pinch batsman or a substitute fielder.

The fans call him "Steamboat." His voice is penetrating and he emphasizes everything. He has vocal range and when he reaches the high pitch of oratory one readily understands why they nicknamed him "Steamboat."

No umpire "calls 'em" as the "Steamboat" does. For instance, when the count is two and two or three and two, Johnston shouts "Two and Two" or "Three and Two" or "Four and Two."

We Don't Dare Say "HIP! HIP!"

We're afraid Volstead might think we were talking of something else beside the straw hat parade that's scheduled to start very soon at our store.

The leaders are coming in already — Some men enjoy being at the head of the procession. Why not get your hat early?

BILL DOAK HURLS ONE HIT CONTEST

Cardinals Wallop Giants in Great Pitching Battle by Score of 2 to 0

St. Louis.—Bill Doak held the Giants to one hit Thursday, the Cardinals winning, 2 to 0. The lone knock was made by Bancroft in his first time at bat when he placed a perfect bunt along first base line. Two years ago Doak was robbed of a no hit game on a similar play. He never hurled a no hit contest. Score: New York 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 1 0 St. Louis 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 1—2 7 0 Batteries: Douglas and Snyder, Doak and Clemens.

REDS WALLOP BRAVES

Cincinnati.—Cincinnati defeated Boston in a slugfest match here

Thursday by a score of 9 to 5. Score: Boston 1 3 0 0 0 1 0 0—5 9 2 Cincinnati 4 1 4 0 0 0 0 0—9 14 0 Batteries: Watson, Gschager, McQuinn, Lansing, Eraxton and O'Neil, Couch, Rixey and Hargrave.

Pittsburgh.—Brooklyn's errors were costly and the Pirates made it three straight from the Dodgers by winning Thursday's game by a score of 12 to 6. Score: Brooklyn 2 0 0 0 2 1 0 0—6 13 5 Pittsburgh 3 3 0 5 0 1 1 0—12 13 1 Batteries: Ruether, Vance, Godonier, Decatur and Hunsinger, Adams and Mattox.

PHILS STOP CUBS

Chicago.—Philadelphia defeated Chicago here again today by a score of 11 to 9 in 10 innings. Score: Phils 0 4 0 2 1 0 0 2 0 2—11 10 1 Cubs 0 3 0 0 0 2 3 0 1 0—9 11 1 Batteries: Rubbell, Betts, Winters and Henline, Osborne, Kaufman, Freeman, Keen and O'Farrell.

When You Score A Ball Game REMEMBER—

A time at bat is never charged against the batsman who is awarded first base by the umpire on being hit by a pitched ball or called balls, or when he makes a sacrifice hit or is interfered with by the catcher.

London.—An agreement for Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey to meet either in London or Paris before next May has been reached by Jack Kearns and Francois Deschamps. Kearns told the Associated Press Friday. The two managers agreed to leave the promotion of the event to the parties offering the best terms.

The Super-Bargains of the May Sale of Fine Silks Close Tomorrow Night

One more day of the Super-Bargains of our May Sale of Fine Dress Silks and the opportunity is gone. The high qualities and remarkable values of these silks have attracted an unprecedented number of buyers throughout the week. On one item we have had to reorder three times to satisfy the demand. Where one lot was completely sold, we replaced it with an even greater value—

Tomorrow's Range of Fabrics is Almost as Complete as Monday's Practically every weave and color that was available Monday morning can still be had tomorrow. We have made extra efforts to keep this sale up to the highest point all week by keeping up quantities on the

Corsets a Necessity to Health

The young woman who discards her corsets paves the way for many ills in middle age. Mothers should impress this fact on their daughters.

Corsets provide a necessary support to the vital organs of the abdominal region and strengthen the important back-muscles.

They prevent the unsightly spreading of the human body and lend poise and healthful carriage to the figure.

Naturally, the girlish figure does not require the firmer boning necessary for the maturer form, but for all figures corset support is a necessity.

The advice of our trained corsetieres is at your service to aid your selection.

Come to our Corset Department tomorrow and be scientifically fitted to your correct model.

We have many styles for all types.

Gossard Front Laced Corsets
